August Egg Drop Report Aug 10, 2019:

The Morning was windy which made the egg drop challenging. Rick Marshall got first and second place with Steve Wilson taking third place. After the official competition Tony Naef dropped an egg that was closer than anybody!

Early birds at the Egg Drop: James Baer, Tom Winter, Tony Naef, Rick Marshall, and Keith Hiatt.

Rick Marshall's de Havilland Beaver makes an early egg drop.

James Baer's old foam-board pusher comes in for a landing, and without wheels, taxis just fine on its belly up to the pits.

Keith Hiatt had some bad luck when his Super Cub crashed, but the damage will be easily to repair.

Tony returns to the pits with his Sensei.

Tony Naef's Sensei drops and egg.

James Baer's Timber carrying a camera above the wing shown flying nearly stationary in the head wind with partial flaps deployed.

Tony's Sensei making a perfect landing - what could possibly go wrong?

The Sensei touches down, turns downwind and is instantly flipped upside down over its nose in an unusual ground loop. Note from the shadow that the plane isn't on the ground yet.

The chow line that Steve Wilson set up with burgers and fixins: Steve, Tom Winter, Keith Hiatt, Gerhard Roos load up.

James Baer and Rick Marshall clean up the streamers left on the field, and bring in the target pylon.

August Club Meeting:

Tony Naef's FlyZone Sensei he brought to Show-N-Tell.

Members gathered during break: Gerhard Roos, Keith Zawalski (back), Keith Hiatt, Gary Porter (back), Orsen Porter, Steve Wilson.

Tony describes how well he likes the Sensei and its built-in bomb bay (in front of main landing gear) ready for egg dropping on Saturday.

James Baer shows a low profile camera & mount that he will be using on his Timber at the Egg Drop on Saturday.
